Dropping the phony facade

Thanks to the magic of DVR I've been watching the first three seasons of "Mad Men."

Set in the early 1960s, the series is about a New York Madison Avenue advertising firm, centering around one character, Don Draper, who heads the creative department.

He's a fascinating character — aloof, suave and handsome and morally bankrupt. He's married with two kids, but he sleeps with anything in a skirt. It's not uncommon for him to not come home for a few days.

His name's not really Don Draper, but Dick Whitman. His mother was a prostitute who gave him away to his alcoholic father and his wife. His father dies and the wife remarries and Dick has a pretty miserable childhood.

He joins the military and is sent to Korea where, after his commanding officer — the real Don Draper — is killed, he switches dog tags and assumes Draper's identity and deserts the war.

So, Dick, now Don, is a successful ad man. However, because he can't completely shed his real identity, he's constantly looking over his shoulder, on guard lest someone recognizes him as Dick and exposes him.

That happens a few times. He's on the train and someone says, "Dick Whitman! How the heck are you?"

Dick/Don's upper lip gets sweaty as he tries to ignore the person until he finally says, "You've got the wrong guy."

Another time his younger brother finds him and comes to see him in New York. Don gives him money and tells him to go away. (Spoiler alert: The brother kills himself in a hotel room.)

As creative and brilliant as Don Draper is, even as he's the envy of all the other ad men in his office, he's an imposter. He's Dick Whitman, son of the town whore, and he's constantly haunted by nightmares of the former life he's trying to hide.

Brennan Manning, former Catholic priest and self-confessed imposter in search of his real self, writes about his fake self and how he counts on outside experiences to give him inner meaning.

In his book, "Posers, Fakes and Wannabes: Unmasking the Real You," he writes, "For a long time I hid from my true self by performing in ministry. I constructed a fake identity through sermons, books and storytelling. I convinced myself that if the majority of Christians thought well of me, there was nothing wrong, right? The more ministerial success I experienced, the more convincing the 'Poser' became."

He adds, "For the Poser, it's not whether you win or lose, it's how you look playing the game."

Eventually, Manning came to the conclusion that to rid himself of his poser or imposter ways, he needed to "call the Poser out of hiding," accept him, embrace him and bring him to Jesus.

"Because whatever is denied cannot be healed," Manning writes. "We have to acknowledge our selfishness and stupidity and gradually accept that we're as poor and broken as the next guy. And that it's okay because if we weren't then we would be God."

He goes on to write, "When we accept the truth about ourselves and surrender it to Jesus Christ, we find peace — maybe not the constant emotional experience of peace, but genuine peace still, even when we don't understand it."

in this sassy, feel-good young adult debut.”

Living in New York City with her husband Jerrod and son Knox, Alecia took a six-month writing class for young adult writing.

She said she outlined her character who simply blossomed from there.

She was allowed to submit up to 20 pages per week. While some classmates chose to turn in a page or two, Alecia maxed out her quota, seeking as much feedback as possible.

“I always take criticism,” Alecia said in a telephone interview. “I’m not writing for a diary, I’m writing for the people.”

With the feedback from her classmates and the experts brought in by the teacher, Alecia said she was able to edit her book as she went, finishing it within six months.

While it’s been three years in the making, Alecia said the process has been fast.

She wrote the book three years ago and sold it two years ago. It’s official release was Jan. 2.

“I’m glad it’s finally here,” Alecia said.

Since its release, Alecia has been on a whirlwind of appearances and book signings. Her first appearances in Kentucky will be Friday at Carmichael’s Bookstore in Louisville followed on Saturday, Jan. 14, at Joseph Beth in Lexington at 6 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 15, at Joseph Beth in Crestview Hills.

She will come home to Cynthiana for a signing at the Cynthiana-Harrison County Public Library on Tuesday, Jan. 17, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Alecia is no newbie to public appearances.

Her introduction came with the completion of a Governors School for the Arts co-written play that she and fellow author Ellen Hagen performed on stage.

That was followed by an appearance on the Ellen DeGeneres Show when her then-boyfriend Jerrod proposed on camera.

She made several appearances on Ellen’s show, including the filming of her wedding.

She has also appeared on CNBC’s The Big Idea with Donny Deutsch, and was a contestant on Deal or No Deal.

Because of her affiliation with the Kentucky Governor’s School for the Arts, having attended as a student and now serving as an ambassador for the program, Alecia turned to GSA when it came time to produce a video trailer for her book.

The trailer, which can be seen at www.aleciawhitaker.com, features Cynthiana’s Christian Persinger as one of its young actors.

After graduation from HCHS in 1997, Alecia attended the University of Kentucky and graduated in 2002. She moved to New York in 2004 and has continued to flourish in her acting and writing careers.

She is the daughter of Vicki and Glen Whitaker, with siblings Matt and Bobbie Jo. Her grandparents, Joe and Loretta Fryman, still live in Harrison County.

What’s next for Alecia Whitaker?

Another Kentucky-based novel.

With The Queen of Kentucky, because it was her first book, Alecia had to submit the entire book for consideration.

However, now she can submit an outline of a few chapters for the publishers to consider.

She’s at the point where she’s waiting to see if they buy her latest idea. If they do, Alecia said readers can expect to see it on the shelves sometime in 2013.

Copes makes bid for state representative

Harrison County native Bradley Copes has announced his bid for 78th District House of Representatives in 2012.

Copes, 57, a Democrat, who has served as the District 8 magistrate for the Harrison County Fiscal Court since 2007, considers himself a fiscal conservative, which, he said will serve him and Kentuckians well.

“It’s something that needs to be addressed in Frankfort,” Copes said. “Necessities and infrastructure need to be addressed more to draw new industry to the state.”

Lodge, having served as past exalted ruler and past state officer. He is also a member of the Berry

Lions Club.

As a magistrate, Copes has attended continuing education each of the five years he has been in office. He is chairman of the farm and facilities committee and a member of the road committee.

He has one daughter, Christina Lea, Paris, and one grandson, Jacob Austin Lea. Copes and his wife, Lois Diane Courtney, live on U.S. 27 North at Cedar Valley.

Copes is one of 10 children of the late Ora and Verna Copes. His siblings are: Dorothy Syra, Bowling Green; Iola Hall, Miamisburg, Ohio; Wanda Jones, Barbourville; sister-in-law Ann Copes, Berry, who was married to the late Wayne Copes; Fernita Varner, Cynthiana; Ruth Kendall, Frankfort; Ruby Sudith, Frankfort, Virginia Copes and Sherry Copes, both of Berry.

Copes will appear on the May primary ballot for the office currently held by Tom McKee.

Layoffs expected at TI Group Automotive in 2012

By BEN HYATT, News Writer

Expected layoffs and plant closing may follow the halt of production lines at TI Group Automotive plant in Cynthiana.

According to a TI Group Automotive employee who wishes to remain nameless, three coil lines at the Cynthiana plant will be closed due to relocation of business.

The source informed the Democrat that the three lines will be closed down due to new production in Bramalea, Canada.

“To our knowledge, the equipment will still be here but the business and parts will be built in a plant in Canada,” said the source.

According to the same source, after the coil lines are removed from the plant, only two production lines will be left, however only one will be used in the few months left of production.

“As we understand, there will only be one line being used for an additional eight months after the other lines are shut down before the doors shut for good,” said the source.

Due to the removing of the coil lines, layoffs are expected to follow. At this time the number of employees expected to lose work is unknown.

“There are people in their 60s working here for the past 40 years that won’t have jobs,” said the source. “They will have nothing now. Plus, there goes tax from the business.”

When contacted Tuesday, Plant Manager

Bob Cook declined to comment about any situations facing TI Group Automotive. Public relation’s Frank Buscemi also claimed no knowledge of future plans of the Cynthiana plant.

TI Group Automotive is located on White Oak Pike. According to plant personnel, 24 are employed at the plant.

TI Automotive is a division of Bundy Tubing and is the manufacturer of small diameter tubing and automotive refrigeration coil.

Vehicles

of the Cynthiana Police Department.. “However, no one informed us of a vehicle riding on its rim through town.”

The Lexus was found on Jan. 6 in the river in Pendleton County, where it appeared someone had attempted to also set the vehicle on fire.

On Jan. 7, a Chevy S10 was taken from Ivy’s

Bar parking lot and later found by sheriff’s deputies on Robinson Union Road.

The latest in the car thefts occurred on Jan. 10 when a Chevy Tahoe was taken from Don Senor Restaurant while the owner was inside the restaurant. It has yet to be found.

“To our knowledge all the vehicles that have been stolen did have the keys inside them at the time of the theft,” said Thomas. “It only takes someone seconds to steal a vehicle if the keys are left in it.”

Several names have been brought forward as possible subjects involved in the thefts but no arrests have been made at this time. The case is marked as being open as further investigation continues.

At this time authorities encourage everyone to be vigilant and to remember to remove keys from vehicles when they are not attended.

Coin

It was more than the $1 gold coin that was written on the deposit slip and even held a greater value than the $10 face value.

The near-mint condition coin held a gold-weight value of over $800.

Brooks said that despite a slow economy and Cynthiana being a small town, donations for the five-week period between Thanksgiving and Christmas netted the local chapter over $11,500 without the $2,001 proceeds.

“Our goal was $10,000 this year,” said Brooks, adding that the coin gift was “icing on the cake.”

“This is by far the best year we’ve had,” Brooks added.

There were 130 volunteers ringing the bell this year; some were ROTC students and others were adult volunteers.

Telephone ‘prompts’ not so prompt

‘Please select one of the these options’

I’m not a fan of automation. In fact, it’s more than just “not a fan.”

I loathe being connected with the recording of a pleasant-sounding woman. Because of her automation, she cannot detect my own snide and sarcastic demeanor and thus adjust her own pleasantries.

I don’t want to push “1” for this or “2” for that. I want to talk to someone who can talk back to me, not give me multiple choices.

For the last couple of weeks we have been updating the Harrison County Answer Book, which will be coming to readers on Jan. 26. Everything was going well until I got to the information for utilities.

When I attempted to reach one of the companies in our listings, I had four options, none of which allowed me to speak to a living, breathing human being.

Becky Barnes
Editor

Although “0” was not an option, I pushed it anyway.

Nothing.

I pushed it again, with a little more authority this time.

“I’m sorry,” said the monotoned voice. “I do not recognize your selection. Please select from one of the these options.”

Again, I hear what does not help.

Residential service. Commercial service. Billing. New customers.

No. No. No. And, no.

Feeling defeated, I finally just pushed a number thinking that whomever I had on the line would surely transfer me where I needed to be.

More automated options. Finally, after selecting a one through four option, a woman spoke through the line. I stated my purpose, she put me on hold. When she returned she said I would need to speak to someone at their central location.

Yes. That’s what I wanted all along.

“I’ll transfer you,” she said helpfully.

Nothing. The line went dead. No transfer. No automated operator. No choices. No nothing! The line was dead.

I’m invested now. And, doggone it, I’m going to talk to someone.

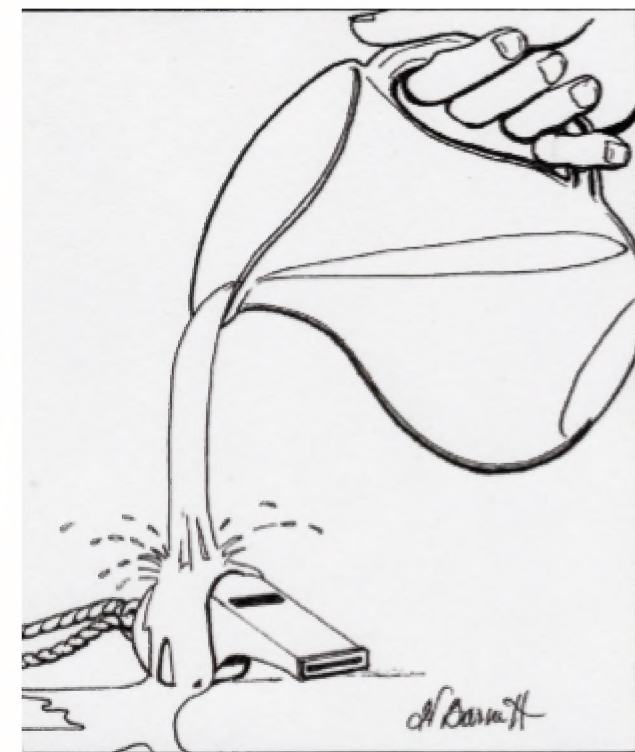

I found it funny that Miss Automation kept telling me that the call would be recorded for quality purposes. I wonder exactly what it was they were going to record. My heavy breathing each time I was given a new prompt?

Even “Peggy” the out-sourced operator of television commercial fame would have been a step up.

If you have an automated operator, I beg you to go through your own prompts to see if they are truly customer friendly.

Get the country back into order

To the editor:

Just what, exactly, is happening is Washington, D.C.? And just why does the President think he can run the country by himself?

He defied the U.S. Senate and his Constitutional authority and used his recess appointment powers to select Richard Cordray as the new director of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau when the Senate is not even in recess. Then he cut the defense budget by over $500 billion placing our national security in jeopardy.

The vice president has said the Taliban is not our enemy when we have been fighting them and Al Qaeda for the last 10 years. Now our President is pursuing the release of Guantanamo prisoners (senior leaders in the Taliban) to cut a ‘deal’ with the Taliban.

Our Attorney General (Holder) allows guns to cross the border, used by Mexican drug runners to kill our border agents, and then says he has no clue about the program.

The President used taxpayer money to subsidize ‘green jobs and green technology’ (Solyndra, et al) then he didn’t even protect taxpayer interests when the ‘green’ companies go belly up – we won’t see a dime when the company assets are liquidated.

We’re not allowed to protect our borders or return illegal immigrants, we’re not allowed to drill for oil, we can’t build on our own property because the EPA says so (Idaho), we are not seeing high level criminals prosecuted, we must adhere to a socialized health care system that no one wants and our national debt is so out of control that it would take hundreds of years to repay – if ever we could. Washington is clearly out of control.

We must get this country going in the right direction for (in my humble opinion) we are headed for disastrous times.

Grave thieves

To the editor:

I am very disappointed in people who have to steal off my mother’s grave. Last year when she had been gone for one year on Nov. 24, 2010, I put a wreath on her grave, it was her favorite color purple and white. It wasn’t on there a week until someone had stole it. This year I looked for four days until I found the perfect arrangement to put on her headstone. It cost $45 and wasn’t on there even two weeks until it was stole. I think it is a disgrace that I can’t even decorate my own mother’s grave. Vivian Philpot was a very kind and loving person to all that knew her.

The Cynthiana-Harrison County celebration will be on Monday, Jan. 16, and begin with a march at 10 a.m. (Eastern Standard Time). The service where Johnson will speak follows at 11 a.m. at the Ebenezer United Methodist Church, 305 N. Locust St., Cynthiana. The luncheon at the church will immediately follow at about noon.

For more information about any of these activities, contact Kenneth Newby, president of the Cynthiana-Harrison County NAACP at 859-234-1818 or 859-707-1599.

The Kentucky Human Rights executive director will talk about how the late Dr. King's messages of equality, justice and empowerment are relevant today.

Johnson has been the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights executive director since 2007. He began his leadership in civil rights, when at the age of 18, he became the youngest president of any NAACP Chapter. Before joining the commission, he spent 20 years in Baltimore, Md., as an official of the NAACP national headquarters. He served as chief programs officer for many years and directed a wide variety of initiatives, including Armed Services and Veterans Affairs, Voter Empowerment, Economic Outreach, Labor, Academic, Cultural, Technological and Scientific Olympics, the Prison Project, the NAACP library, and many others.

As part of the Freedom House Citizens Exchange Program, he spent two weeks visiting East Africa to help promote global democracy. In 2002, during Zimbabwe's presidential election, Johnson's NAACP delegation was the only American organization invited to work as independent observers. He eventually became the NAACP's chief executive of operations, where he oversaw the executive office of the president and CEO.

Johnson has spent a lifetime leading equality causes. In addition to his career, he has been a dedicated volunteer and activist confronting many challenges, from integrating the segregated swimming pool in his hometown of Franklin, Ky., to the divestment of Kentucky's interest in South Africa. He served as Kentucky state president of the NAACP for 14 years, increasing Kentucky NAACP branches from four to 42. He served as an elected member of the NAACP national board of directors where he was elected one of its vice presidents. He served as chair of the Kentucky Coalition of Conscience, is a member of the Urban League, Kentucky Chapter of the National Association of Human Rights Workers, and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Before leaving Kentucky to work in Maryland, he moderated a weekly radio program entitled Louisville Forum and wrote a column in the weekly newspaper, The Louisville Defender, entitled "Advocacy Line." His work in civil and human rights led to a street named after him, John J. Johnson Avenue, in his hometown of Franklin, in 1993.

He has received numerous awards and honors, including an Honorary Doctorate degree from Simmons University; a Distinguished Service Award from Kentucky State University; the Kentucky Southern Christian Leadership Conference Annual Civil Rights Leadership Award, and the Medger Evers Award for Outstanding Service, Sincere Devotion and Commitment to the NAACP.

He served on the National Board of Directors for the A. Philip Randolph Institute, the Board of Directors of the National Committee on Pay Equity and the National Board of Directors of the National Coalition on Black Civic Participation. He chaired the advisory board of the National Great Blacks In Wax Museum, Inc.

The Kentucky Human Rights Commission is the state government authority that enforces the Kentucky Civil Rights Act, which makes discrimination illegal.

To learn about civil rights or to receive help for discrimination, call the commission at 1-800-292-5566.

Browns

to be awakened to continue signing the deeds. He also contends that his hand had to be placed on the signature line of the deeds.

In a written defense, filed Dec. 29, Kay Brown states that Brown's suit fails to state a claim against her and that the case should be dismissed.

She also asserts that she did not deliver deeds to her husband's properties to her attorney in Paintsville with instructions that he prepare deeds transferring title to Brown's properties to her.

She denies other allegations set out in Brown's suit as well, including having a notary and witness to coerce Mr. Brown into signing the deeds, that the estimated fair cash value of the real estate that was conveyed to Mrs. Brown totaled $6,273,371 and that she paid nothing for the conveyance.

With her denial of all of the allegations, Mrs. Brown asked that the complaint be dismissed.

Judge Jay Delaney had previously overruled a request for dismissal on Dec. 20.

On Jan. 3, a motion to quash subpoenas in the case styled James A. Brown Construction Co. vs. Kay E. Brown, was passed when neither parties appeared in court.

In this case, Mr. Brown alleges that Kay Brown "unlawfully and improperly enriched herself and her family by transferring, spending or otherwise disposing of property and assets belonging to Jim Brown."

Some of those transactions included:

- Redeeming one or more certificates of deposit belonging to James Brown in an amount in excess of $500,000;
- Spending $800,000 to purchase herself a residence in Paintsville and spending an additional $200,000 on repairs with monies belonging to the plaintiffs, which were businesses owned by Brown (James A. Brown Construction Co., Redd, Brown and Williams Construction, Martin's Rest Home, M. Goldberg, Brown Ambulance and James A. Brown);
- Using funds from one or more of Mr. Brown's accounts in excess of $100,000 for pay her personal attorney fees seeking guardianship of Mr.

Brown.

• Redeeming to herself dividends of $96,000 from a life insurance policy owned by Mr. Brown.

• Purchasing a $64,000 Mercedes for herself;

• Giving herself $50,000 from an account owned by M. Goldberg Inc. as a "stockholder distribution," despite that she owned no stock in MGI;

• Paying $123,824.67 for her daughter's mortgage;

• Giving approximately $97,000 to her brother;

• Giving $30,500 or more in checks to her daughter;

• Transferring $80,500 from one of Brown's companies to her Southern Accents LLC;

• Unexplained withdrawals in excess of $1,116,000 from a business checking account owned by Redd, Brown Williams Construction;

• Unexplained withdrawals in excess of $697,000 from James A. Brown's personal checking account;

• Unexplained withdrawals in excess of $544,000 from the Martin Rest Home account;

• Unexplained withdrawals from Brown Ambulance Service account in excess of $237,000;

• Unexplained withdrawals in excess of $72,000 from a checking account owned by James A. Brown, d/b/a J&J Enterprises;

• Other expenditures the amounts of which remain undetermined for improvements to her daughter's residence, including kitchen renovations, landscaping and the installation of a swimming pool, and payment for one or more automobiles for her adult children;

• Transferring title to several vehicles owned by James A. Brown, the estimated value still undetermined; and

• Spending funds for the pay-off of her brother's mortgage.

A hearing will be held Jan. 17 for a ruling on Kay Brown's motion to dismiss the fourth case styled as James A. Brown vs. Kay Brown, Jennifer Hutchinson and Wesley Todd Booth (Kay's children).

In this suit, Mr. Brown alleges that his second wife had his will rewritten after his debilitating stroke in 2008 leaving his assets to Kay Brown or to her children should she die before Mr. Brown.

Revolutionize family night with the newest technology

(ARA) - The concept of reserving one night periodically for a family night is one that goes back generations, whether playing different card games, watching a movie, board games or games that only require creativity, like charades. While those activities are still household staples, family night now involves technology as much as it does creativity - and with family holiday parties coming, finding new and innovative ways to keep everyone entertained are a must.

While some may scoff at the idea of technology as a useful tool in family night, a recent study by Trinity University concluded that technology can actually enhance family togetherness by promoting teamwork and learning through a shared game experience. The survey of more than 30,000 players of an online game found that many families - children, parents and grandparents - are brought closer together by playing the game, and children learn reading, math, goal-setting and teamwork.

Technology takes family game night to new heights with the newest wave of video games that don't take place merely sitting on the couch with a controller in hand. New advances in motion-based technology, like PlayStation Move for PlayStation 3, offer an experience that gets people moving together and interacting with one another in both collaborative and competitive ways.

Here are three new games and a selection of networked services to make that family holiday gathering one that people won't want to leave:

*Everybody Dance

With a party mode that allows up to 20 players to compete in head-to-head dance competitions, dancers can try out one of the 40 dance tracks with their original music videos. Using the PlayStation Eye camera, performances can be captured, played back and links can then be sent to players' Facebook and Twitter accounts. Using the camera to create a profile for every user, the win-loss records are tracked, keeping the competition going every time they come over for a visit.

*Carnival Island

While the nostalgia of carnival games like ring toss and mini bowling may be lost on the kids, introduce them to childhood favorite games with Carnival Island. This family-friendly game offers 35 classic carnival games and attractions to play with the PlayStation Move motion controller, so players can actually feel like they're tossing a ring around a soda bottle - not just pushing the buttons on a controller.

*EyePet & Friends

For the younger children in the family, EyePet & Friends is a fun and accessible game for families and friends to play together. For the first time, two players will be able to play simultaneously with two EyePets, using two controllers in one augmented reality. Players can connect to the all new online community portal to review friends' EyePet profiles, take part in events and competitions, and view and share content - all in a child-friendly environment.

*PlayStation Network

Game consoles now provide even more services than ever before that will surely amp up any family night. PlayStation Network is the online entertainment hub for all PlayStation platforms and is the premier destinations for games, TV and movies, sports and music. No need to leave the house to rent a family film anymore. PlayStation Network delivers instant access to streaming content, including movies from Netflix, CinemaNow and VUDU, TV shows through Hulu Plus, music via Music Unlimited and live sports with MLB.TV, NFL Sunday Ticket and NHL GameCenter Live. The variety of services on PSN will make everyone in the family happy.

Having a great night with the entire family doesn't mean being tethered to the table with board games, and introducing video games and networked services doesn't mean everyone has to be stuck on the couch. With the right technology, family game night can become something that everyone looks forward to.

Extension office to host Couponing 101 workshop

By CHERYL CASE, Co. EXT. AGENT

I remember a time, not so long ago, when couponing was not fashionable. There were even rumors of coupons being discontinued because people just were not using them. The tide has turned. There are hundreds of couponing websites, newspaper columns, blogs and even a television show about extreme couponers. Consumers are searching for ways to make their dollars go farther and couponing can result in significant savings.

On Jan. 24 at 1 p.m. at the Harrison County Cooperative Extension Office, Gina Noe, Madison County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences, will present "Couponing 101, Surviving an Economic Crunch." Topics to be covered include meal planning, creating a master shopping list, finding and organizing coupons, couponing etiquette and stockpiling.

Here are a few pointers to help you get more bang for your buck:

- The Sunday paper is one of the easiest places to find coupons. Magazines and weekly flyers are also great resources. There are plenty of online printable coupons and even some you can download directly onto your customer loyalty cards. Swap unused coupons with your friends and family.

- Know what products you use most often and plan ahead. By buying products at their lowest prices and stockpiling until you need them, you are never forced to pay full price for items you use on a regular basis. This only works with products you will use before the expiration date.

- Use coupons to try new products. Consider them your own sale on items you might not have purchased at full price.

- The best way to save money is to combine coupons with sales. Take a little time to peruse store flyers and match your coupons with sale items.

- Don't get carried away with coupons. There are other ways to save money. Generic brands may still be less expensive than brand names with a coupon. Take time in the store to compare price. Better still, keep a master list of products you buy most and compare prices at different stores.

For more money saving tips and coupon pointers preregister for Couponing 101 by calling 859-234-5510 so we will have plenty of handouts and coupon tools. The class is free and open to the public.

Health Care Quiz:

Who decides who is qualified to treat you for a serious medical condition?

A: Medical Schools

B: National Medical Licensing Board

C: Kentucky Politicians

The answer is C. State legislators can actually let someone who has never been to medical school treat serious conditions. As health care costs continue to rise, more people without the proper training or certification may be permitted to lift a scalpel or prescribe potentially harmful medications to you or your family.

MD ID – Know who's treating you.

As health care laws change, politicians are loosening the rules for treating serious conditions. MD ID helps you know whether your health care provider is really a trained and qualified physician.

You have the RIGHT to demand Qualified Care.

When it comes to your family's health, why take risks? Check to make sure your doctor is a licensed physician with an MD (Medical Doctor) or DO (Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine) degree. It's not just smarter. It's not just safer. It's your Right.

HCHS's Martinez named semifinalist in art contest

By BEN HYATT, News Writer

A passion for good grades and art has led a Harrison County High School French II student all the way to the transatlantic semifinals.

Tonya Martinez, a 15-year-old sophomore at HCHS, was named as one of the 100 semifinalists in the "Rock The Statue Green: A Transatlantic Art Contest," which celebrated the 125th birthday of the Statue of Liberty.

As part of a grade, HCHS teacher Tonya Wagoner, required all of her French II students to provide an entry piece for the contest.

Students were given the option of written or art pieces to be submitted in the competition.

"I chose to submit a piece of art since art is what I do," said Martinez. "I guess she wanted us to be involved in the contest since it was the French who gave us the statue as a gift."

Martinez described her drawing as a sign of hope for cleaning up the future.

In her drawing, Martinez depicted a pile of man-made waste and "rubble," with the strong hand of Lady Liberty stretching from the piles of waste, strongly holding a tree.

Beside the drawing is printed Martinez's phrase, "125 years and she stuck by us... But now she's asking 'Where were you when earth was devoured.'"

"Basically I drew the picture to draw attention of how man-made things are causing problems in our world," said Martinez. "You never hear of global warming problems and pollution situations without them being tied directly with 'man.' It is our fault that the environment has its problems."

Martinez admitted that as a young citizen she too has not always adhered to a "green" style of living, but as time goes on she is becoming more aware of the severity and importance of becoming more vigilant in taking care of the environment.

"There have been many times where I have done something that could have had a negative impact on the environment," said Martinez. "I am not what you would call a radical when it comes to being nature friendly, but I do see the need to be more cautious of my actions when it comes to taking care of the world we live in."

After Harrison County's Christmas break, Martinez was informed that the semifinals would be as far as she got in the transatlantic contest.

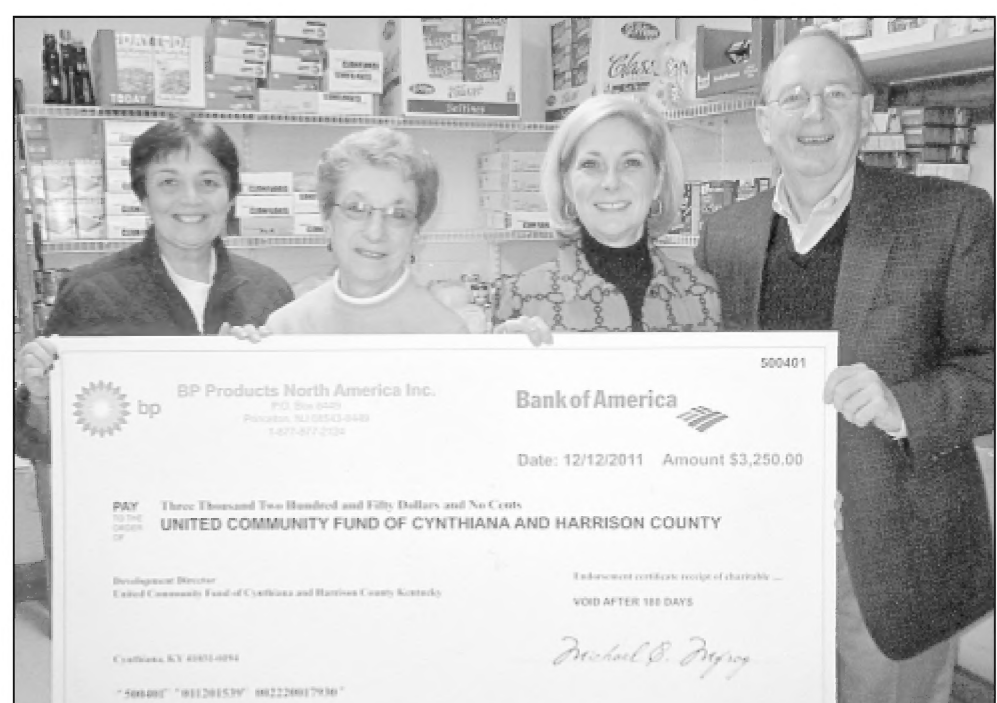

"Being in the top 100 is good enough for me," said Martinez. "I am very happy with how I did."

Martinez was one of only two students in Kentucky to make it to the semifinals. She will be awarded with a luxury bag, which will be sent to her in the mail later this year.

Martinez is the daughter of Angel Coy of Cynthiana. Martinez is also a honor roll student.

TONYA MARTINEZ

Food pantry receives Fueling Communities grant from BP

The Harrison County Food Pantry was selected to receive $3,250 from the BP "Fueling Communities" Program, which provides funds to local charity-based organizations that provide services to those in need in communities where BP supplies gasoline and diesel fuel.

Scott and Janet McCauley, owners of Northfield Oil, a bulk BP supplier, were familiar with the food pantry's mission and knew of its struggles.

In its beginning the food pantry was housed at the Cynthiana Presbyterian Church and was administered by the Rev.

Jim Erwin. Over the years, the pantry was under the Ministerial Association, but later evolved to a United Community Fund-sponsored endeavor and later moved its location.

It presently receives support through that agency and its board and from private and corporate donations. The McCauley's felt Margret Watson and her volunteers deserve large heartfelt thanks for what they do and maybe the grant would help them continue this worthy and needed program.

Farming

Tea leaves and herbal concoctions

We visited friends in Boulder, Colo., over the Christmas holiday and had an opportunity to visit the Celestial Seasonings Tea Company that is headquartered there. In fact, this one factory produces all of their tea sold worldwide.

Celestial Tea had humble beginnings with a group of "passionate young entrepreneurs" (i.e. hippies in 1969), who began collecting herbs from the slopes of the Rocky Mountains and crafted their own herbal teas to sell to local health food stores.

Today, Celestial Seasonings is one of the largest specialty tea companies in North America.

By definition, a true tea is an aromatic beverage made from steeping the cured leaves of Camellia sinensis in hot water.

The legend surrounding the first cup of tea figures around the mythological Emperor Shen Nung. Emperor Shen Nung was quite remarkable, he was considered the father of Chinese medicine and agriculture (the first to invent the plow and introduce the cultivation of grains); he had a profound interest in plants and an experimental attitude that was made all the more revealing because he had a transparent stomach (better to understand the medicine side of things.)

Traveling through his kingdom on a hot summer day over 5,000 years ago, he paused to rest, his servants boiled some water which was a reasonable proposition to ensure that the water was safe to drink and a gust of wind blew some dried camellia leaves into the kettle.

The curious Emperor was more than willing to try the accidental concoction and found it to be refreshing and invigorating (a little dose of caffeine never hurt anyone!)

And so it began... Tea is the mostly widely consumed beverage world-wide after water.

Tea types include a confusing array of different colors, combinations and ingredients.

This is how I have come to understand what I am drinking on any given morning. The most common tea types are black, green and white. These all

This process is called fermentation and when the fermentation is stopped by applying heat, is how tea becomes black or green.

So, a black tea, which has the most caffeine, is actually heated as it is dried to allow for maximum drying and oxidation which creates the black leaves; green tea is minimally heated right after picking with steam heat which stops oxidation and allows the leaves to retain their green.

White tea is an altogether different animal. White tea is considered the tea of Emperors because it comes from the leaf buds of the tea bush.

Yes, before the leaves even unfurl in the spring, the silvery-white swollen leaf buds are harvested in small batches, sun-dried and slightly heated to create a very subtle tea.

Teas are reputed to have flavonoid antioxidants, which has contributed to the increase in variety found on store shelves today.

The competition is fierce (and confusing!) True tea comes from the tea plant, Camellia sinensis, so what is all that other stuff?

Rooibos, or "red bush," comes from a South African mountain bush; herbal teas are infusions of fruit and herbs; and chai is a sweet to piquant mixture of teas, herbs and spices.

Chai is of Southeast Asian origin and I consider it a drinkable version of a good Indian curry, which is just a mixture of various herbs and spices.

It is said that many Indian families have their own signature chai recipe.

Turns out that iced tea is a relatively new way to enjoy tea. It wasn't until 1904 that iced tea came on the scene at the St. Louis World's Fair; this was the same year that the tea bag was invented.

So, how do you take your tea?

KET's Kentucky Life

Visits a penguin habitat, Michigan battlefield, and Moundale Manor

Dave Shuffett to host the next Kentucky Life from Moundale Manor in Winchester. In this program, Shuffett spends time with penguins in a "Dave Does It" at Newport Aquarium, visits Vendome Copper and Brass Works in Louisville, and more. The program airs Saturday, Feb. 4 at 8/7 p.m. CT and Sunday, Feb. 5 at 4/3 p.m. CT on KET; and Sunday, Feb. 5 at 7:30/6:30 p.m. CT on KET2.

Built in 1905, Moundale Manor in Winchester is a three-story historic home and was purchased and renovated in 2011 by Ed and Vanessa Ziembroski, who also own the Winchester Opera House.

In the program's first story, Shuffett is surrounded by flightless birds as he enters the habitat of Newport Aquarium's Penguin Palooza for an all-new "Dave Does It" segment. He helps clean the habitat and serves a meal of raw fish to the penguins, who make up the second most diverse collection of cold weather penguins in the country.

Shuffett also visits Vendome Copper and Brass Works in Jefferson County, a fourth-generation family business specializing in equipment for breweries, laboratories and the chemical industry. Vendome was founded in the early 1900s, and the experience of meeting the challenge of Prohibition in the 1920s set the stage for their continued ability to adapt and grow to serve developing industries in addition to meeting the needs of distillers.

Also, Kentucky Life visits River Raisin Battlefield in Michigan, one of the key sites where hundreds of Kentuckians gave the ultimate sacrifice, in a battle that became known as the Massacre on the River Raisin. In the War of 1812, often referred to as America's forgotten war, Kentuckians played a major role. Although no battles were fought in the Commonwealth, five out of six Kentucky men of military age fought in the war, and an astonishing 1,200 of the 1,876 Americans killed were from Kentucky.

Finally, an historical marker in Metcalfe County recounts the discovery of an artesian well and the luxury hotel that once stood nearby to take advantage of the healing waters. And this program's "Our Town" feature is the Knott County community of Mousie.

Senior Mariah Nichols drives past the Bracken County defense last week on the Hilltop. The Lady Bears took the 69-28 victory. Nichols adds 13 points in battle with St. Pat's Lady Saints.

Fillies win over Mason County, lose heartbreaker at St. Pat

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, Sports writer

The week's basketball action did not start out well for the Harrison County Fillies as they dropped a 69-28 Thursday night game to the Lady Bears of Bracken County.

The 8-5 visiting Lady Bears out-played the Fillies in every aspect of the game to take the victory.

However, on Saturday night a different Harrison County team took the floor in Maysville St. Patrick's tiny gym and played the 8-8 Lady Saints to a close game losing by one at 49-48.

The Lady Saints own a victory over Bracken County by 13 points so the improvement from the Fillies was quite exciting for Coach Kim Furnish.

"Even though we lost, the feeling is much more positive tonight," she admitted after the game. "The girls feel like we are getting better and are buying into what we have been trying to teach them."

The game was close throughout as the teams traded baskets for the first quarter, which ended with the Fillies leading 15-14.

Field goal shooting for the Fillies was very good in this stanza as they hit on seven of 13 led by sophomore center Jordan Durham who score 11 of her game high 15 points in the opening quarter.

St. Patrick took a six-point lead into the halftime break as they connected on two of six three-point tries among their seven field goals in the period.

The Fillies roared back in the third period as senior Mariah Nichols, back from her concussion rehab period, hit for two threes and a field goal to lead Harrison County to a 36-34 lead going into the final quarter.

In the last period, the officials sent the home team to the foul line 13 times while the Fillies shot two and the Lady Saints held on for a 49-48 win.

For the game, Harrison County was successful on 21 of 50 field goal attempts while St. Patrick made only 16 of 55. St. Patrick was good on six of 18 from the three-point line while the Fillies made five of 15 tries from beyond the arc.

The big difference in the game was at the charity stripe as Harrison County was one of three for the game while the home squad was 10 of 21 tries.

HCMS Colts clinch Southern Division title

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, Sports writer

On Monday night, the Harrison County Middle School Colts eighth grade version continued to record victories as they added Powell County to their list of conquests.

Playing their third game in five days, the eighth grade squad ran off 10 straight points to open the second half and never looked back in defeating the eighth grade Pirates on the Bucs' home floor.

Only three players scored for the Colts, led by Zach Pulliam who netted 16 points. Brock Jenkins added 12 and Jovon Williams scored six points.

The win makes the eighth grade Colts 8-0 in conference play and 14-2 overall.

One of the two losses came to Paris the first time the two teams met and the Colts avenged that defeat last Wednesday in Cynthiana.

In this game, the Colts trailed by as much as 10 points in the first half before unleashing a 2-3 zone press which confused the young Hounds.

The defense allowed the Colts to come back for a 41-40 win in a very well played game.

Pulliam led in scoring with 11 hitting two big free tosses with 17 seconds left in the game.

Jenkins scored nine and Leon Commodore added seven.

On Thursday night, the Colts traveled to Mt. Sterling and never trailed as they whipped the McNabb Middle squad 64-50.

Pulliam led the Colt attack with 26 points with Commodore pitching in 10, while Jenkins, Williams and Davonte Zack Pulliam draws the foul last week at Harrison County Middle School. The HCMS Colts went down to the wire against Paris Middle School, coming from behind to beat the Hounds, 41-40 in the last seconds of the game.

Kenney added eight each.

The seventh grade Colts began the play period with an exciting come-from-behind win over Paris on Wednesday.

The cold shooting seventh grade team trailed by a 12-3 count at the end of the half but the shooting eye returned just in time for a 23-21 win.

Thorobreds wrestle to 5th place in Simon Kenton Duals, Shirley wins 100th match

Harrison County's sophomore Mason Fryman holds a 4-1 record after Saturday's Simon Kenton Duals.

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, Sports writer

The Harrison County Thorobreds wrestling team defeated Montgomery County, University Heights and Baden, Ohio, en route to a 3-2 mark and a fifth place finish in the Simon Kenton Duals Saturday.

Noah Mitchell rolled through the meet with a 5-0 record while Mason Fryman and Justin Williams were 4-1 losing by narrow margins.

The Breds were boosted by the return of senior Anthony Shirley who won the 100th match of his career.

"We wrestled hard all day from top to bottom," said Coach Luke Tucker. "As the competition gets tougher, we seem to be responding."

The next match for the high school wrestlers is Wednesday at home versus Scott County with the Region 7 Super Duals Saturday at Woodford County.

Breds beat Bracken County Friday, lose next two games

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, Sports writer

The weekend promised to be exciting as the Thorobreds traveled to Bracken County for a freshman, junior varsity, varsity triple header on Friday, played Lincoln County on Saturday and then visited the No. 11-ranked George Rogers Clark Cardinals on Tuesday.

The triple header was the highlight of the week as Harrison County swept all three games winning 40-32 in the freshman game, 52-39 in the junior varsity and coming from behind to win the varsity 52-44 against the Polar Bears.

The varsity game was a tale of two halves for the Breds. After leading by 10-8 to end the first quarter, they decided that they would become a three-point shooting team and trailed 20-19 at the half.

The second half was quite a different story as the Thorobreds came out with some defensive pressure and a better shot selection to gain a six-point lead at the end of three quarters and finished winning by a 52-44 score over Bracken County.

Harrison County had three players in double figures as senior Caleb Ford had a game high 25-point output while sophomore Dillon Pulliam hit for 15 and junior Jordan Martin was also in double figures with 10 points.

Junior guard Austin Ray led the Polar Bears with 12 points on four three pointers.

The Thorobreds were 20-41 from the field for 49 percent while the Polar Bears managed only 14 of 48 tries for 29 percent.

The win gave Harrison County a 9-6 record while Bracken County fell to 7-11.

On Saturday, the Thorobreds traveled to Lexington Catholic to participate in the Dunkin Donuts National Shootout facing 8-7 Lincoln County.

Harrison County didn't give the effort it took to win as they trailed throughout, losing by a 60-41 margin.

The Thorobreds reverted back to shooting threes as they managed only four of 18 from beyond the arc while hitting a total of 16-37 from the field.

Pulliam and Ford led the Breds with nine points each while freshman Jacob Conway and junior Carlewis Cummins each scored 16 to lead the Patriots.

Tuesday night in Winchester the effort was definitely there.

"We positively competed tonight," said Coach Mike Reitz after the game. "The effort that wasn't there on Saturday sure was tonight."

The 11th ranked team in the state, the George Rogers Clark Cardinals, had their hands full for the first half into the third quarter before the home team stretched the three-point lead they had at the half to 11 after three quarters.

Harrison County cut the lead back in the fourth quarter, but in the end, the Cardinals were just too much and the Breds fell 61-47.

Ford was again the leading scorer for Harrison County hitting for 21 on 10 for 15 shooting with one of three attempts from the line.

Ford also led in rebounding with eight as the Breds out rebounded the Cardinals by a 24-20 margin.

The two problem areas for Harrison County were free throws, where George Rogers Clark was 21-26 and Harrison County was three of six, and turnovers where the Breds had 17 to the Cardinals seven.

Seniors Bopper Stenzel and Adam Fatkin led George Rogers Clark with 23 and 17 points respectively.

Fatkin also hauled in eight rebounds to lead his team. The win was the 14th consecutive victory for the 16-2 Cards while Harrison County dropped to 9-8 for the year.

Harrison County's next action is Saturday at 3:30 p.m. back at George Rogers Clark for the Central Bank Martin Luther King Classic.

The Thorobreds will face 3-13 Lewis County on this occasion.

The following Monday Campbell County visits the Hilltop for a junior varsity/varsity twin bill.

MIKE'S MINUTE

Halfway point for NCAA basketball regular season

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The conference seasons are just beginning for the college basketball teams and there have already been many surprises and a lot of excitement.

It is apparent that on a given day or night there are probably 20 teams that could put the five or six wins together that it takes to win the March Madness tournament.

The Big East, the ACC, the Big Ten, the Big Twelve, and the Southeastern Conference each have more than one team that could win and there are others capable as well. Barring injuries to key players, the final 16 could be so full of nail biters that each and every game will be a "must see."

Syracuse is the top-ranked team, but I don't believe that they will be on top for much longer.

The Big East home court is more formidable than most leagues and they

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

just escaped Marquette on Saturday at home.

Connecticut is also in the top 20 as is Marquette, Louisville and Georgetown, yet only Georgetown has a winning record in the conference after four league games.

Of course, the ACC has powerhouses North Carolina and the team in Durham.

The Big Ten has Michigan State, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio State and Indiana in the top 20, but these teams also face a grueling home and home conference schedule that promises to make a high ranking difficult to maintain.

The Big Twelve has Kansas and Missouri though Missouri is on its way out of the top 10 after a real whipping at Kansas State Saturday.

Speaking of Kansas State, doesn't Frank Martin (Kansas State coach) dress like a mafia don?

Kentucky looks to be the only real contender in the SEC since Florida can't win on the road and Vanderbilt is really inconsistent.

Tennessee and Vandy will be a real test for the Wildcats at home but in the long run they don't appear to be national contenders.

That could change for Vanderbilt because they are one of the finest three-point shooting teams in the country and a hot streak at the right time could overcome other shortcomings.

I believe that Ohio State will be the team to beat in the Midwest with Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan State in the running.

The southern teams will have to beat North Carolina to advance and the East will more than likely be a battle between Connecticut and Syracuse.

The West is weak other than Kansas as the Arizona's and California schools just don't appear to be ready to make an impact nationally this season.

Many games are yet to be played and anything can happen in college basketball, but excitement promises to be the norm not the exception.

One other thing, last week I failed to mention that Tennessee also did not qualify for a bowl game.

The Ewalt Grocery crew made mention of that and I stand corrected.

Luke Slucher had six points to lead in scoring and Reese Asher added five along with Brett Persinger's four points.

Thursday night in Mt. Sterling was also easier for the seventh grade Colts as they led the entire game for a 36-24 win.

Slucher again led in scoring with nine followed by Keishon Tucker with eight and Nathan Fryman with seven.

The wins made the seventh grade squad 5-2 in the conference and 8-7 overall.

The Powell County game was a tough loss for the Colts as they led for much of the game only to fall by a 34-31 score.

A three pointer with 15 seconds was the dagger to the heart of the Colts who then turned the ball over on the next possession and the home standing Pirates won the ball game.

Persinger led in scoring with 12 points and Asher pitched in 10 for the Colts.

The seventh graders are still in the hunt for the conference playoffs with a 5-3 mark while they stand 8-8 for the year.

The Colts host two games at home this week as Nicholas County buses over on Wednesday and Conkright Middle will be in Cynthiana on Thursday evening.

Harrison Co. bowlers remain perfect as they roll past Montgomery County

Galactic Alley in Cynthiana was the scene Monday night as the Harrison County Thorobreds and Fillies bowlers routed Montgomery County.

The Fillies took five of seven points to extend their season mark to 4-0 and 21 of a possible 28 points. Rebecca Switzer, with a two-game score of 278, and Kelsi Caldwell, with 258, led the Fillies. Andra Gaunce (238), Shelbi Morris (224), Jessica Wilson (214), and Ashley Boyd (213) also scored well on Monday.

The Thorobreds rolled to their victory taking all seven points to also remain perfect at 4-0.

The Breds have grabbed 24 of the possible 28 for the season to date. Zach Schneider led the Harrison County boys with a two-game total of 417 as he had a 206 followed by a 211. Justin Edens trailed Schneider by only 15 pins with a two-game total of 402.

Also contributing in a big way Monday night were James Snapp (374), Joseph Bush (360), Justin Mitchell (353), and Andrew Wills (347).

The next match for the bowlers of Coach Petey Reynolds is Thursday at Fleming County.

HCHS football coach not returning

Harrison County High School football coach Mark Carroll announced this week that he will not be returning as the head football coach.

Carroll was notified before Christmas that his contract with the Harrison County School system was not being renewed. School officials have declined comment cited personnel matters as being not for public review. As of press time the football coach's position had not been posted on the district's website.

Carroll led the Thorobreds to a 2-8 season in 2011, his second year at the helm of Thorobred football.

Prior to coming to Harrison County, Carroll served as an assistant coach at Lexington Christian and East Jessamine high schools.

Coy still undefeated as middle school grapplers finish 4th at Montgomery Co.

Colin Coy ran his record for 2011-12 to 24-0 as he took a first place in the Montgomery Middle School Classic last Saturday. The Colts wrestling squad came in behind Turkeyfoot, McNabb and Johnson County in the talent-laden field.

"We had a great effort from all who participated," praised Coach Barry Zumwalt. "With the districts coming this week, we still have some work to do to correct our mistakes."

Taylor Bourassa and Michael Mattox each brought home second place finishes while third grader Tyler Hudgins was third in an impressive display for a young wrestler. Austin Harless returned from a bout with pneumonia to bring home a fourth place finish.

The district tourney is this weekend at Woodford County.

"We will have our full lineup at districts," noted Zumwalt. "I like our chances to bring home some hardware."

Fillies

From FILLIES page 10

The Fillies grabbed 32 rebounds to 23 for the Lady Saints but committed 17 turnovers to 13 for St. Patrick.

Each team had three players in double figures led by Doram's 15. Nichols added 13 and freshman point guard Chelsea Ingram scored 11.

Eighth grader Madison Philpot grabbed eight rebounds coming off the bench for the Fillies.

The Fillies fell to 4-11 with the tough loss.

Better play continued on Monday night as the Fillies hosted 10th Region rival Mason County Lady Royals and came away with a resounding 59-46 win with a beautifully balanced attack.

Nichols' calming influence on the Fillies was apparent Monday night as the younger players and veterans as well played under control. The 5-foot-6-inch senior hit for two three pointers in the first period as the Fillies jumped out to a 14-9 lead at the first stop.

"Chelsea, Kelsey and Emalee reacted to the Mason County pressure tonight," said Coach Furnish. "With Mariah on the floor, they are much more mature with their ball handling."

Sophomore center Jordan Doram was more than the Mason County big girls could handle. Despite a tight whistle on her play, Doram had 14 points and nine rebounds at the half as the Fillies held a 32-26 edge with one half in the books.

Foul trouble plagued the aggressive Doram in the second half as the Mason County crowd encouraged the game to be called tightly in the middle. This caused Doram to be held to two points and one rebound for the entire second half. But with Doram on the bench, the Harrison County balance came into play as six Fillies scored in the third stanza to push the lead to 49-36 at the end of the third period.

Mason County made a couple of runs during this period but big shots by Ingram and a three by Emalee Little stymied the advances.

Doram fouled out with three and one half minutes left, but the Lady Royals couldn't muster a threat and the Fillies grabbed the 59-46 victory.

Both Doram and Nichols scored 16 points with Little and Philpot adding nine points each. Doram and Philpot had 10 rebounds to lead the Fillies' 32 rebound performance.

The win improved the Fillies record to 5-11 for the year with a Wednesday night battle at Covington Holmes (7-5) next on the schedule.

The veteran Lady Bulldogs have an eight junior line up and feature wins over Dixie Heights and Lexington Christian among their seven victories.

Mason County dropped to 3-14. The game Monday night was played before a nice crowd with the band and cheerleaders adding to the atmosphere for the evening.

The Harrison County junior varsity dropped the Mason County game 50-12 after defeating St. Patrick's junior varsity by a 30-20 score.
